THE OPTIMIST

SOUTH SIDE HIGH SCHOOL
NEWARK, NEW JERSEY

SOUTH SIDE TODAY

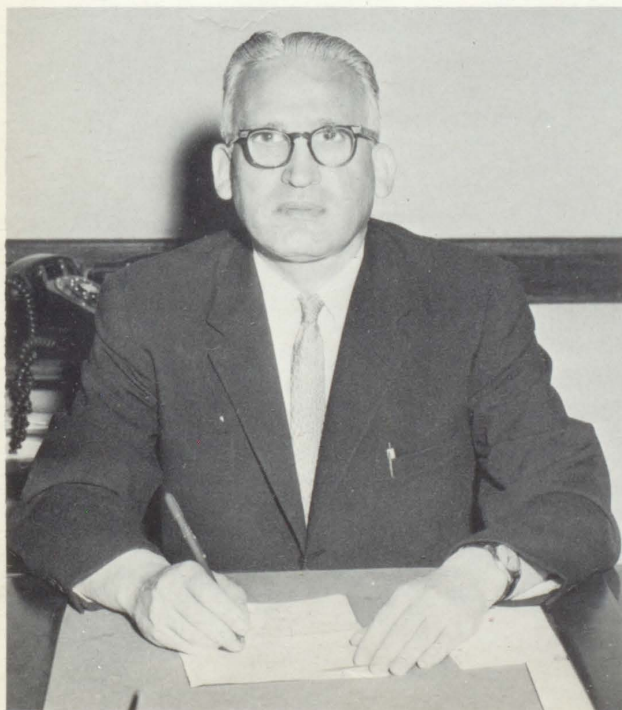

Dear Graduates,

Be grateful for the doors of learning which South Side has opened for you. Step through these doors into the exciting realm of knowledge. This means—continue to read, to study, to think, and to inquire throughout your life. Do not measure success only in terms of wealth. Success which brings real happiness must be measured in terms of education and service to humanity.

May this kind of happiness be yours.
I shall remember you always.

Your friend,
LEO LITZKY,
Principal

ADMINISTRATION

"We Shall Overcome" is a great theme for the class of June, 1965. I hope sincerely that the education you have gained at South Side will be a keen-edged weapon to cut down the barriers of ignorance and prejudice and help you to overcome historic obstacles to advancement. May the knowledge, skills, and attitudes you have learned here enable you to fling open the doors of opportunity and enter broader realms of freedom, happiness, and security.

Betty Jean Nelson

in memoriam

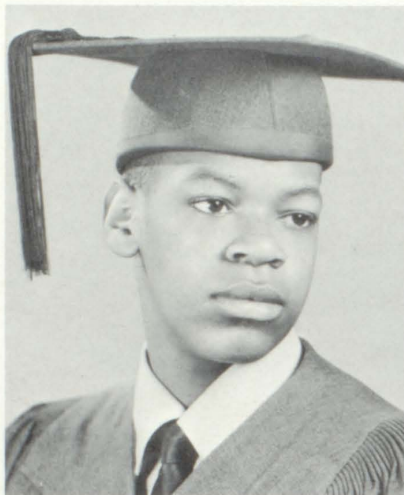

ANITA ADAMS

"Get one," says "Nookie," who wants to become a physical therapist. Skating and dancing are her favorite pastimes: she can be found at almost every social. A member of the Executive Committee and Mixed Chorus, Anita digs both rock 'n' roll and classics.

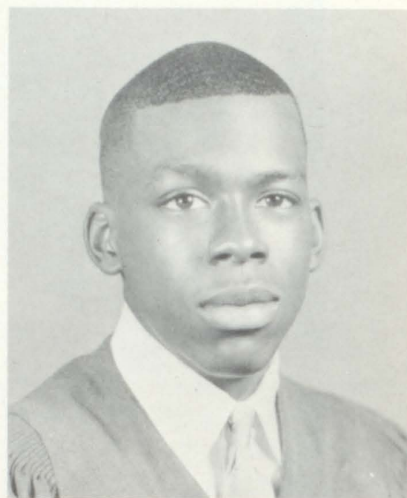

CLARENCE ADAMS

"Are you serious?" asks "Ju Ju." In the future he plans to attend Howard University for engineering. He is a member of the South Side Senior Band and Marching Band, a senator from his homeroom, and belongs to the Essex County Touch Football League. Jazz is his music.

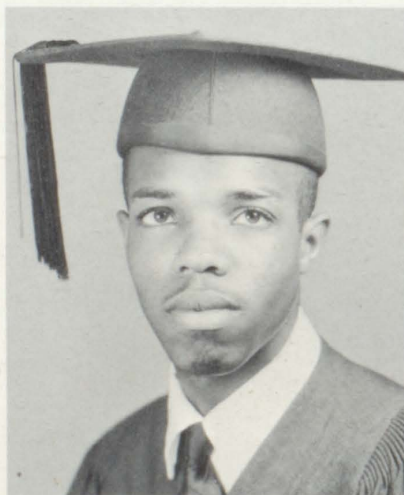

STANLEY ADAMS

You can hear "L'il Mac" saying "Be nice." Stanley plans to further his schooling at Winston-Salem or to join the Air Force. We may see him sitting in on an Executive Committee meeting or running for the track and cross-country teams. He likes jazz and "Sad Girl."

GERTRUDE ADAMSON

"Well, all right" is "Trudy's" favorite expression. To attend vocational school is her ambition. She lists sewing and typewriting as her top subjects. Dancing, sewing, and listening to rock 'n' roll records are her ways to relax. Gertrude's song is "I'm So Proud!"

HARRY ANDERSON

"Spects" anticipates joining the Air Force after graduation. He belongs to the YMCA and enjoys jazz and rock 'n' roll. His prime subjects are English and Business Law. Harry's top sports are basketball and bowling. "Take Five" and "Canadian Sunset" are his tunes.

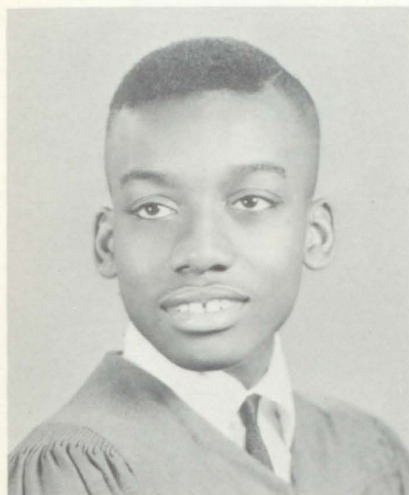

JUDITH ANDERSON

A girl who enjoys participating in various church activities, Judith expects to serve humanity as a registered nurse. She's found English and history fascinating subjects and has as hobbies reading, skating, and swimming. In leisure hours she watches TV shows like "Arrest and Trial."

KEITH ANDERSON

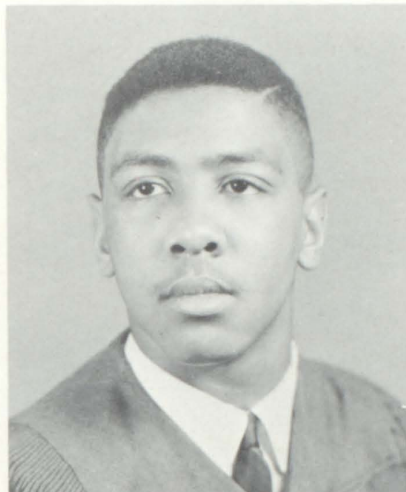

Keith hopes to attend Seton Hall University. History and English have been his favorite subjects. Member of the 1965 Executive Committee, soccer team, and French Club, he lists soccer, baseball, football, and track as top sports. "The Eleventh Hour" and "Channing" are TV favorites.

WILLIAM ASHFORD

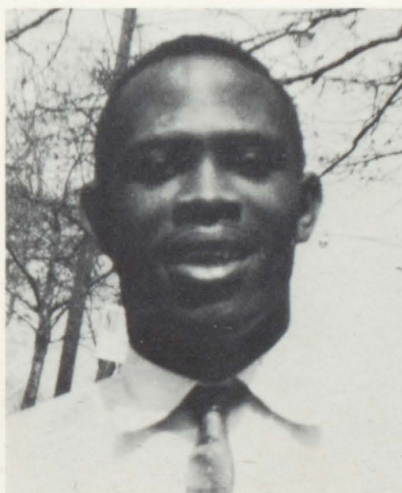

OTIS ANDERSON

The armed services are "Big Otis'" goal at the present. We can catch him playing baseball or football in his spare time. Mathematics and record keeping rate top subjects for Otis. When it comes to Clay Cole, "Sea Hunt," "Mr. Novak," or "Temple Houston," Otis approves.

CHRISTINA ASCIUKIEWICZ

"Chris" plans to attend business school. Her favorite pastimes are making dresses and watching television. Top TV programs for her include "The Virginian," "The Fugitive," and "Perry Mason." Sewing and typewriting are Chris' subjects. Robert Mitchum is her actor.

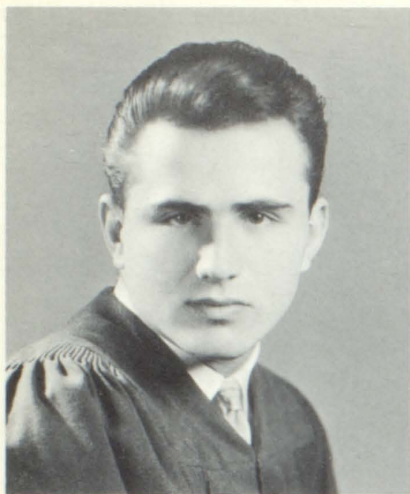

WARREN BAKER

EDITH BAMBERG

"Live and let live," says "Edi," who is a delightful addition to the Madrigals, Mixed Chorus, and Optimist Staff. She's been secretary of Y.W.A.'s and devotional chairman of Jr. Young People's Choir, Hopewell Baptist Church. Montclair State will be lucky indeed to get "Edi."

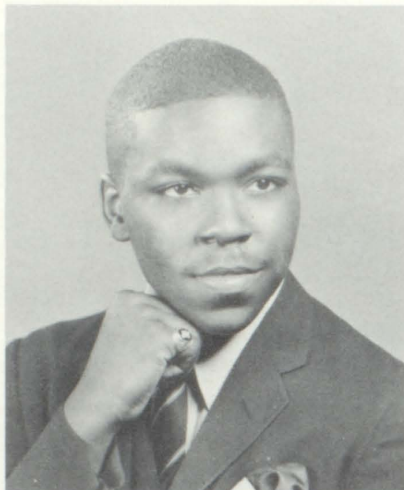

JOSEPH BARON

The United States Navy beckons for "Joe" after graduation. He has enjoyed his courses in history and the activities in physical education. Ballads and rock 'n' roll are musical favorites. "Do You Want to Hear a Secret?" is his tune. Special singer: Johnny Mathis.

MORRIS BATTLE

"Yank" plays on the football team and sings in Mixed Chorus. He expects to go to college. Some of his preferences are U.S. History, dancing, singing, rock 'n' roll, "The Dick Van Dyke Show," and Jerry Butler. "So let it be written; so let it be done," says he.

QUEEN BELL

"Dean," a future secretary, says "Oh, yeah." She enjoys reading and listening to rock 'n' roll and jazz. Her favorite subjects are mathematics and stenography. She spends her spare time viewing "Saturday Night at the Movies." Paul Newman and Ruby Dee are her specials.

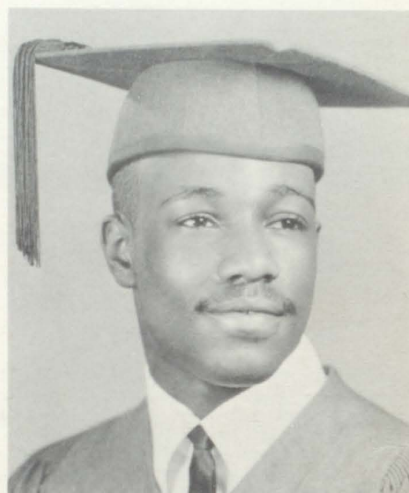

JOHN BENNETT

Health and gym are favorite subjects with "Johnny." He expects to be a teacher of physical education and health. John plays trumpet in the band—goes for Dixieland jazz and musicians like Al Hirt. Paul Newman and Red Skelton have won his favor.

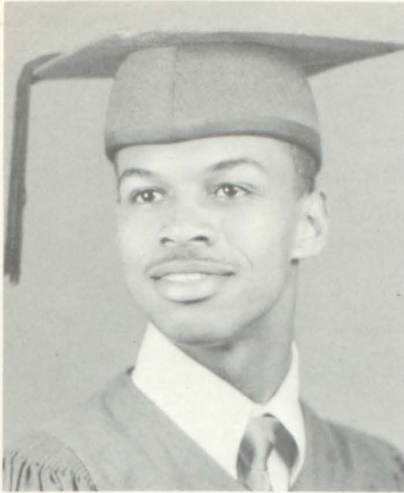

MARGIE BENNETT

To go to business college is next on the agenda for "Mike." A member of the Twirlers and of Delta Iota Phi, she singles out history and English as courses that pleased her. She's aided the school as a member of the Library Staff and cheering the football and basketball squads.

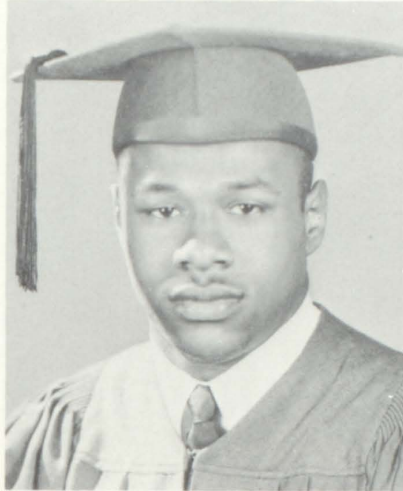

ISAAC M. BEST

BARATA BEY

"Hey, man!" exclaims "Bee Bee," who plans to study pharmacy. He's active on South Side's basketball and track teams, plays the drums whenever he has the chance. A member of Boys Club, Barata enjoys electronics and music. He likes "Mr. Novak" and seeing Poitier act.

BRUCE BIVINS

"Mookie" has belonged to the football, indoor, and outdoor track teams — been captain of the "eleven." He's proud of his singing in his church choir and loves gospel music. Chemistry is his favorite subject. Engineering is the career he's cut out for himself.

MARGO BLANDING

"Elaine" says "Check it out." Her ambition is to become a nurse. For sports it's baseball; for study, English. Her hobbies are listening to records or to the radio. "The Nurses" and "The Fugitive" are her favorite television shows. Rudy Dee and Poitier are Margo's stars.

MARTHA BLEDSOE

"Hey now!" says "Shorty." After completing high school she plans to attend a nursing school. She is a member of G.O. Patrol and Las Noveletts. Her favorite type of music is rock 'n' roll. "Shorty" likes football, basketball, Bette Davis, and Sidney Poitier.

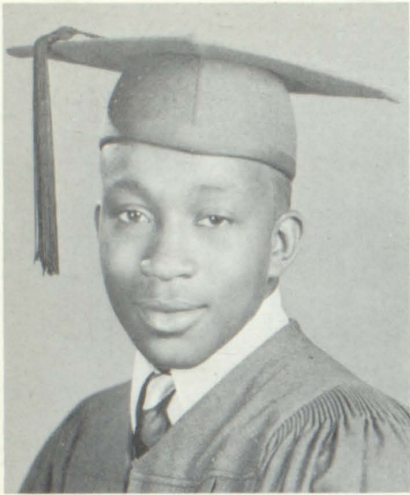

EDITH BLOW

Edith's ambition is to go to business school. She loves dancing and goes for both jazz and rock 'n' roll. Her favorite subjects are gym, English, and typewriting. Athletically she votes for basketball and swimming. Edith is a fan of Connie Stevens and Richard Chamberlain.

SHIRLEY ANN BOLDIN

"Are you kidding?" asks "Shirl." She is a member of the Phi Delta Chi Sorority and senator from homeroom 111. Her favorite subjects: mathematics and bookkeeping. During her spare time she bowls and writes letters, while listening to songs like "God Bless Our Love." Business school beckons.

RICHARD BOOKER

"Porkman" is widely known throughout the school for his amiable disposition and his reputation as one of South Side's all-time greats in baseball, basketball and football. Dancing is his hobby. His usual greeting is, "Come on!" Hopes for the future center around college admission.

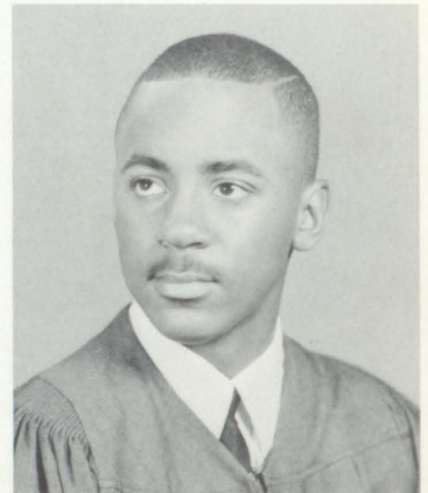

DOROTHY BONNER

A member of Optimist Staff and Service Club, "Angel" may attend a business school. She sings in her church choir; relaxes with reading, skating, bowling, and movies. Consumer Problems, Health, gym and English are her school subjects. Her saying is "That's no big thing."

CLARENCE BOSEMAN

Chemistry and mechanical drawing are top subjects for "Bose," who expects to study at a technological institution. A member of YMCA and Boys' Club, he raises tropical fish as a hobby, calls basketball and football his favorite sports. Clarence goes for James Bond movies and "The Fugitive."

PATRICIA BOWDEN

"Pat's" ambition is to become an interior decorator. An active member of Service Club, she enjoys designing and rock 'n' roll music. For sports she lists baseball, football, and basketball. In school Patricia has enjoyed bookkeeping and driver education. "Life is what you make of it."

RENA M. BOWERS

"For days," says "Bunny," who plans to undertake nurses' training. She's a member of Optimist Staff and her church choir and is a vice-president of the Red Cross. Rena enjoys "The Beverly Hillbillies" and Sidney Poitier. Biology and English are her favorite subjects.

JESSICA BOWMAN

"Cookie" says, "Ain't nothing to it but to do it." She plans to attend business school. You can find her meditating to jazz, while waiting for her sailor boy. She is a member of the Delta Iota Phi Sorority, loves English, Consumer Law, basketball, and football.

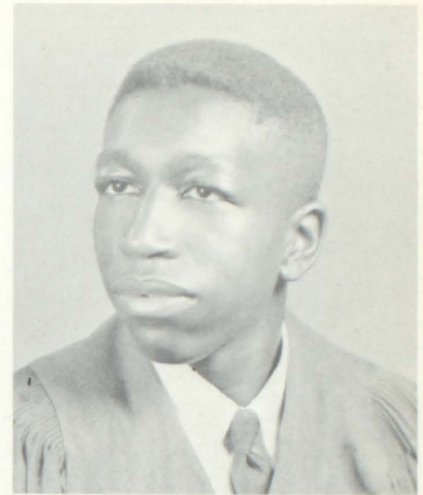

EVELYN DELORES BRANHAM

Evelyn expects to further her education after graduation from South Side. You'll often find her at her hall patrol post or cheering for our football team. Mathematics was her favorite school subject. Johnny Mathis is Evelyn's idol in the entertainment field.

JOYCE BOWMAN

"Chickie," a future student of Hampton Institute, can be found at all the football and basketball games, for she's the co-captain of the Cheerleaders. A member of the French Club, Service Club, and the Executive Committee, she has favored the subjects of History and English.

MILLS BRIGGS

Mills spends his spare time on electronics and hopes to become an electrical engineer. English, mathematics, and history were his main subjects; running on South Side's track team was his athletic hobby. He likes jazz, football, basketball, "Perry Mason" and "The Defenders."

KAREN BROOKS

Karen expects to continue her education. She's been a member of our Tennis Club, a devotee of jazz and rock 'n' roll. She also craves sentimental tunes like "My Guy" and "Never Will I Marry." Algebra and basketball are tops. "Handsome is as handsome does," she says.

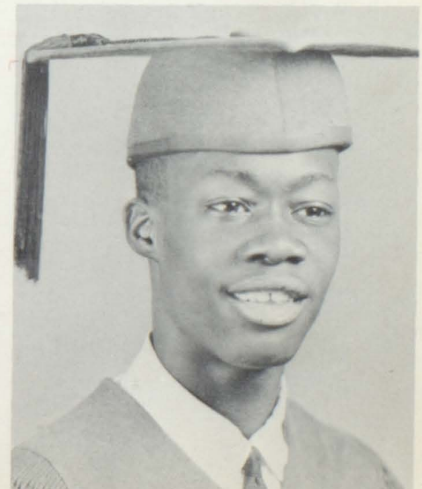

EDNA BROWN

A member of the Optimist Staff, Biology Staff, South Side Twirlers, and home-room senator, "Ed" is treasurer of the Phi Delta Chi Sorority. Her favorite subject is Business Law. She really digs jazz the most, lists dancing and singing as top spare-time activities.

JOHN LESTER BROWN

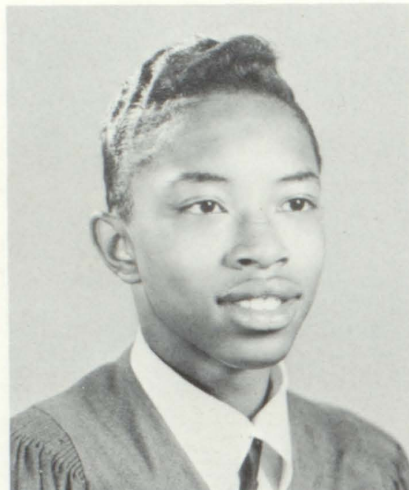

English is John's top school subject. His aim is to go into the commercial art field. Naturally, his prime hobbies are drawing and painting posters. A singer in Mixed Chorus and Boys Glee Club, he lists baseball as the favorite sport.

PAULA NAOMI BROWN

Paula, who hopes to become a famous ballerina, not only dances, but also sings; is an enthusiastic member of Mixed Chorus. For sports she chooses skating. Others of Paula's hobbies are knitting and collecting stuffed animals. And, naturally, she loves to watch ballet dancing.

PEARL BROWN

Subjects preferred at South Side by "Bobby" have been English and business law. She's been too busy studying to have many sparetime activities, but when she relaxes it's to the music of jazz or rock 'n' roll. Basketball and baseball are her sports choices.

SHIRLEY BROWN

"Education is a must," says "Shirl," who intends becoming a nurse. Writing poetry and baking are her hobbies. She loves modern jazz and her favorite record is "My Guy." Shirley is a member of the Biology Club and the Youth Choir. French and U.S. History are top subjects.

MARVA BUCHANAN

Bowling, swimming, basketball, football, and baseball are just a few of Marva's favorite sports. She is in the Mixed Chorus, her church's Inspiration Choir, French Club, and Library Staff, and plays on girls' basketball and bowling teams. She plans to major in sociology at college.

CLAIRE BRYANT

"Denise" plans to attend a school for dieticians, then join the WACS. She likes singing, jazz, Latin-American music, and rock 'n' roll. "Take Five" and "Come To Me" are musical favorites. Law and English have been her best subjects; baseball and kickball, her sports.

KENNETH BROXTON

"Monk" expects to study to be a mortician. He's run on the cross-country, indoor, and outdoor track teams, been president of his class, a member of Cafeteria Staff, Recorder Staff, Service Club, and Good Foods Clubs. Football and auto racing are his chief sports.

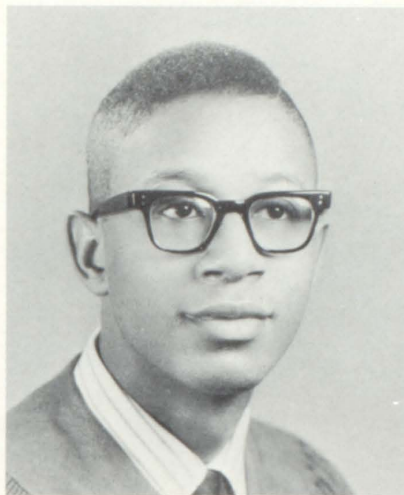

SARAH BURKS

Sarah has plans for college. She enjoys dancing and skating. "Forgive, Then Forget" sends her. Favorite subjects are history and French. She is a member of the Delta Iota Phi Sorority. "Mr. Novak" is tops with her, as are football and baseball.

WILLIE BURNETT

Typewriting, U.S. History, and Biology are the favored subjects of "Will," who expects to be a businessman. He belongs to the Falcon Baseball Team and likes basketball, too. Hobbies are reading sports books, listening to rhythm-and-blues, and watching TV dramas.

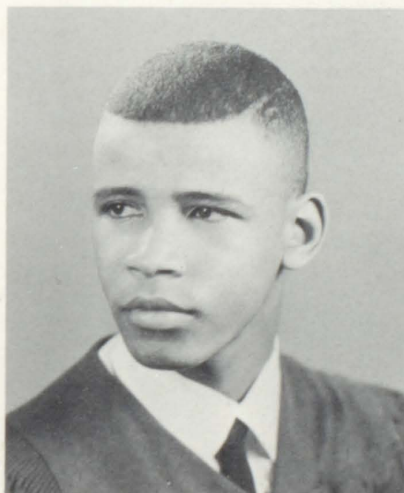

ROBERT BUTTON

"All right," says "Bob," a future college student. Right now swimming and bowling take up his time. Rock 'n' roll plays a big part also. He plays good games of football and basketball. Bob's favorite TV shows are "Greatest Show on Earth" and "Burke's Law."

CARMEN ALICIA CARDONA

Member of St. Columbus Church Choir, Daughters of Mary, Optimist Staff and Spanish Club, "Ali" enjoys dancing to Latin-American records and wants to become a secretary. Her favorite subjects have been stenography and history. "I've done it," says she.

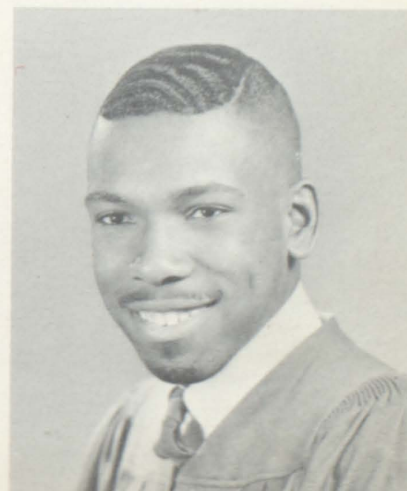

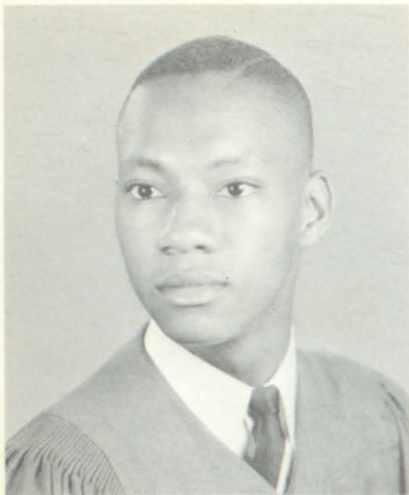

MICHAEL CHAMBERS

"Lefty" intends to be a player in night clubs, but now he plays drums and skates to pass the time. He also wrestles and plays football. His favorite pieces: "Walk on the Wild Side" and "El Cid." He digs health and science the most. Jazz is a favorite too.

CHARLES CHAMBLISS

"Big Charl" says "Hey, now!" to everything, especially sports. A star in baseball, football, and basketball, he plans to go into the business field. He has been an active member of G.O. Patrol and homeroom vice-president. His best subjects have been algebra and U.S. History.

LEONARD CHARACTER

Leonard's interest and training in science and mathematics at South Side have influenced his career choice. He expects to attend college to become an engineer. Our school teams have found in him an avid fan. Especially popular with Leonard are football and basketball.

EDNA CHILES

"Shorty" is a member of Library Staff and the Red Cross, who expects to attend a medical school. Shorthand is her top course; reading and dancing her hobbies. She likes rock 'n' roll and songs like "Sad Girl" and "Tell Him." Sidney Poitier is her favorite movie star.

JUANITA CLARK

A prospective student at nursing school, Juanita favors mathematics and English. In her spare time she reads, sews, and watches Ben Casey and Dr. Kildare on TV. Juanita is a member of the Quza Debs, likes actress Debbie Reynolds and watching basketball.

LEON CLARK

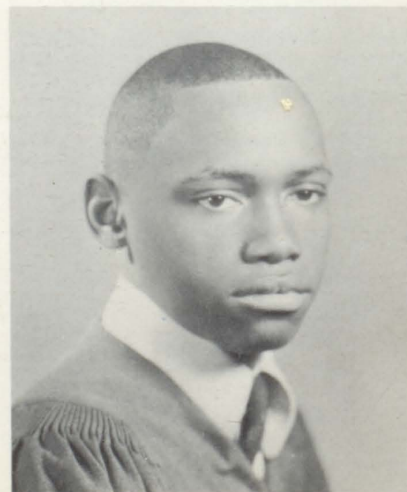

Senator from Homeroom 53, Leon is a member of the junior band and French Club. He lists music and sports as hobbies, is a fan of football, baseball, and swimming. Music, chemistry, and history are top-rated by him. His favorite TV program is "Combat."

EMMA CLAY

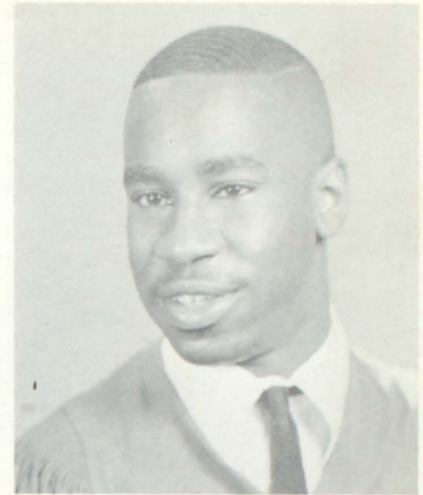

KENNETH CLEMONS

"Kentucky" says, "Weren't even cool" to everything except going to auto-body training school. His sports include football, basketball, and baseball. His music is rock 'n' roll. Favorite records: "My Guy," "The Way You Do the Things You Do." Poitier and Wayne are favorite actors.

PAMELA COLEMAN

"Ce Ce," a future airline stewardess, belongs to Optimist Staff, Superior Debs, Vondeletts, and her church's young adult choir. She's enjoyed history, English, and gym. Basketball, track, football, and tennis rank as Pamela's top sports. Paul Newman is the actor.

JOHN COLLINS

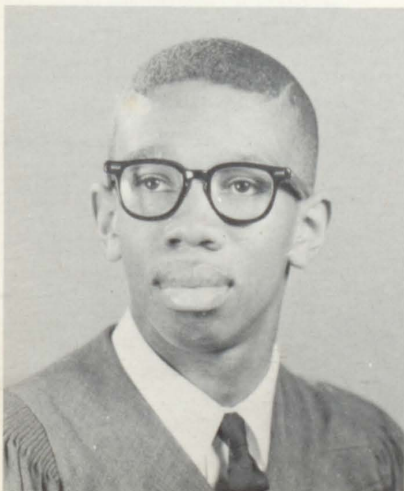

CLARENCE COLEMAN

For "Junior" English and United States History have proved the most fascinating subjects. A member of Service Club, he gives his musical devotion to rock 'n' roll. Baseball and football are the sports he favors. A real fan of South Side athletics.

GARY COOK

"Hey, baby!" is the customary greeting of "James," a future military man. A member of C.H.A., he likes popular music and rock 'n' roll; flips over "Beginning." He's an enthusiastic fan of basketball, loves TV's "McHale's Navy" and the acting of Gary Cooper.

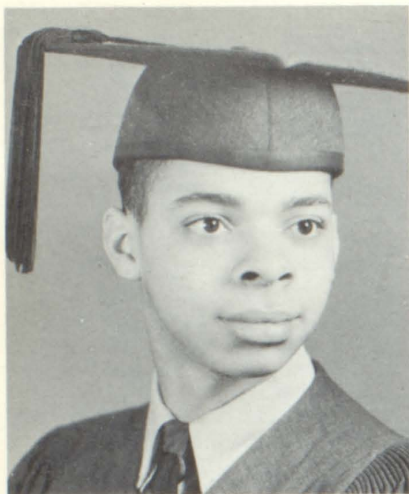

JAMES COOK

History student "Cookie" runs on the cross-country, indoor and outdoor track teams, sings in Mixed Chorus and Boys Glee Club, and is a member of Optimist Staff and G.O. Hall Patrol. He expects to attend Morgan State College. For recreation he collects jazz records.

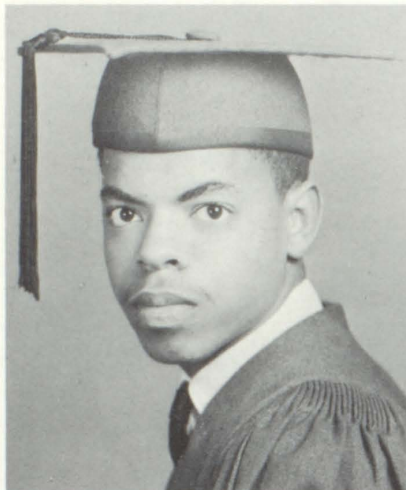

SHIRLEY COOPER

"Poopie" is an active member of the Utility Club and the Noble Debs social Club. A future WAC, she can often be found listening to Diane Warwick's music. Watching television is a recreation she enjoys, especially when it's "Peyton Place."

WALTER COPELAND

Walter hopes to major in business administration at Rutgers University. He likes to read and listen to Latin-American or jazz music, when not studying history or Spanish, his prime subjects. Swimming, tennis, ice skating and horseback riding are his outdoor recreations.

ROBERT CRAIG

"Cool's" future plans are to become a bookkeeper or an accountant. A member of the school band and Blessed Sacrament Drum and Bugle Corps, he takes part in community activities such as Boys Club and YMCA. For pastimes he enjoys drumming, baseball, and swimming.

MARGARITA CRUZ

Executive secretary of the Class of 1965, "Margie" explains, "Well, we all have our problems." She lists stenography and Spanish as her favorites, next to Elvis and The Beatles. Hobbies are sewing, knitting, and collecting records. A secretarial job is in Margarita's future.

SENIOR JOTTINGS: Some Notes on This and That

1965 CLASS HISTORY

by Patricia Robinson

We arrived at South Side filled with the false sense of importance we had acquired from being VIP's in our junior highs and grammar schools. Now we were embarking on a great adventure—high school!

On entering school we were quickly reduced to our true size in the first hour. Frankly, we couldn't compare with juniors, who held the exalted position of being almost seniors. Sophomores weren't so great, but they weren't as stupid as we freshmen—or so we were told by seniors.

Our "glorious" career had begun. In short order we learned two things: (1) Don't ask a senior where a room is; and (2) Try to act as if you know where you're going.

Smart freshmen mastered the art of not looking hurt when a senior brushed at them and made a caustic remark about "dumb freshmen."

Really dumb freshmen who made a futile attempt to defend their class were given a glance guaranteed to wither. Usually it did.

The first year passed uneventfully. We had learned the room layout and were beginning to look like normal people. As September passed into December we acquired an important element—school spirit.

It was this spirit which made us look forward to the opening of the new term—that and the fact that we were now sophomores. During this year we joined the clubs open to us. The fellows tried out for sports, while the girls plotted for boys—senior boys. All sophomore girls had hopes of attending "the Prom." Needless to say, few made it, for senior boys soon wised up to the sudden surge of affection.

The next September we returned to school feeling wonderfully important, and we were. We were juniors and we had arrived socially. Gleefully we pushed freshmen aside, sniggered at their height ("We couldn't possibly have been that short!"), and laughed at the bewildered look in their eyes.

It was this year we began to refer to ourselves formally as "The Class of '65." We held Junior Class elections and we elected Reginald Peniston president, Kenny Broxton vice-president, Margarita Cruz recording secretary, and Gwen Mays executive secretary.

Some of us were lucky enough to be elevated to the executive committee. We planned events to raise money, and we gave our first dance—a smashing success. Anybody who was anybody was there, including seniors! We were a class now and we were proud of it.

Everyone looked forward to Senior Day, the day when we would take our senior seats. As juniors we dressed and marched into the auditorium. As proud seniors we marched out. Our day had come.

During the summer many of us worked. Almost everyone decided, changed his mind, and decided again on the choice of a career. Scouts had already looked over most of our lettermen, who eagerly hoped for sports scholarships.

In September we sauntered into school, because seniors don't just walk like regular people. Every senior bought and wore his senior pin. Few of us were absent from school on assembly day. Nobody wanted to forfeit the privilege of marching into the auditorium.

In short order we held our elections and named Kenneth Broxton president, Reginald Peniston vice-president, Dolores Sheeley, executive secretary, Jessica Bowman corresponding secretary, and Alex Sanchez treasurer. We were confident that this leadership would aid Mr. Shapiro, our adviser, in guiding us through a successful year.

The class engaged in furiously competitive selling of candy, to help us with our dues. Alas, dues unfortunately came with the privilege of being seniors. Dues, pictures, rings, prom bids—all seemed to run together.

Unbelievably soon we gave our first senior dance, "The Roaring Twentieth." A few of us never figured out if it was the twentieth dance or denoted the twentieth-century dance fads.

Most of us had resolved that we would forgo party dresses or new suits for Christmas and ask Santa to send us the cash needed for graduation. Girls began to snag fellows for the prom.

Dr. Ziegler's yearbook staff, headed by Eloise Sutton, began to work diligently on the Optimist. It seemed as if it would never be completed, as deadline after deadline flew past. The class decided that it wanted white and gold yearbooks, with a popularity poll in each homeroom. How we sat and smiled and smiled and smiled, while the photographer snapped picture after imperfect picture.

On March 5 came our last senior dance of the year, "The Spring Dance," which greatly added to our class funds.

The guidance department finally published a list of how the seniors ranked in class. Many of us groaned as we learned that we weren't rated as high as we felt we should be.

Most of us had already applied to our college, and many of us had been notified of our acceptances.

As Senior Day and graduation loomed nearer, we felt proud, grown-up, and scared: proud, because we had finished high school; grown-up, because we were considered adults now; and scared, because we were embarking on a new path—jobs, college, marriage, adulthood.

But as we look back we can all say that the "Class of '65" left an honorable record in the annals of South South High School.

OUR LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

by Patricia Robinson, Barbara Stevenson, and Marva Stroud

We, the Senior Class of 1965, being of fairly sound mind and body, do hereby bequeath these, our most prized possessions, to our successors, the Class of 1966:

The memory of our brilliant four years spent at old South Side—in some cases, five years;

For those undergraduates who are bashful about consulting their guidance counselors, a space in the Ann Landers column of the Newark Evening News and permission to write to Dr. Joyce Brothers;

For use in the boys' locker room—a bottle of My Sin perfume and a set of fans;

For members of Hall Patrol, we leave a periscope and a megaphone, so that they can see students lounging in the halls and advise them to get to class before taking their usual excursions to the boys' or girls' room;

The aromatic flavor of the scrumptious cafeteria food (never to be forgotten by us)—especially the elegantly prepared meat loaf and hashed brown potatoes (psyche);

Free access to room 101, which was looked upon unfavorably by those who attended afternoon sessions from 2:32 to 3:15 p.m. (the detention hour);

The periods of utter relaxation in the gym, particularly, "One, two, three, four—right face—halt, one two!";

A book of detained slips, each autographed by Mr. Friedman;

A list entitled, "Ways and Means of Successful Class Cutting";

For chemistry students, a ten-minute film that will imprint forever on your minds chemical radicals and their charges;

A page full of cutting remarks to be used to refer to freshmen, congested halls, mean teachers, and tests;

The friendship of our favorite custodian worker, Mr. Elson Freeman;

A basketball player to take the place of Charlie Chambliss;

A "Rat" to replace "Roach" Fuller;

Gyp sheets like the kind we wish we had had, so you can pass all tests without studying;

Twenty-twenty vision, for the same purpose as above-mentioned;

We turn over to your care (almost intact) the faculty—that mass of brilliant human beings who tried so very hard to make us grow up and forget our childish habits and anxieties;

But, most of all, we leave you our sincere hopes that you will become a successful Senior Class.

THE SENIOR CLASS OF 1965

THE FOUNDATIONS OF OUR HISTORY— A GARBLED ACCOUNT

by Naomi White and Patricia Wilson

Son: Dad, do you know how America was discovered?
Dad: Sure, son. American history was my best subject. Come, sit down and let me tell you all about it. Well, to start with, America was discovered by Americus Vespucci in 1942, while on his way to India. They named America after a young girl named Christine Columbus.
Son: But, Dad, I thought . . .
Dad: Hush, son. How do you expect me to tell the story if you butt in?
Son: Yes, Dad.
Dad: As I was saying before I was so rudely interrupted, the first tribe of Indians to come to America was the Mayflowers, and they landed at—now, what was the name of that rock? I know: it was named after a car—I believe it was Cadillac Rock.
Son: I believe it was Plymouth Rock, Dad.
Dad: Stop interrupting me, or I'll never get the story told!
Son: I'm sorry, father. Please continue.
Dad: A tribe of Pilgrims was put on reservations. It was here where the Pilgrims showed the Indians how to plant corn and . . .
Son: Don't you mean . . .
Dad: I meant what I said and I said what I meant! Your father is right one-hundred per cent.
Son: But my history teacher said that . . .
Dad: Your history teacher! What does he know that I don't?
Son: Nothing, Dad.
Dad: As I was saying, the Indians tried to monopolize the corn market. This caused the Pilgrims to go on the war path and they started scalping the Indians with tomahawks, and before you knew it a civil war had started.
Son: I thought the Civil War was between the North and the South.
Dad: You are wrong, my boy. North America never went to war with South America.
Son: I didn't mean . . .
Dad: Never mind what you meant. I'll try to continue, if you will stop interrupting. The most famous ride was the daylight ride of Paula Revere, who warned the Indians that the Pilgrims were coming. General Grant told the Indians not to fire until they saw the white of the Pilgrims' eyes. This famous battle took place on Punk's Hill.
Son: Punk's Hill? Are you referring to Bunker Hill by any chance?
Dad: Son, this is the ump-teenth time you have interrupted me. You must be more patient. I will answer all your questions when I am finished.
Son: Thank you, Dad. I appreciate your help.
Dad: But son, I'm not finished yet.
Son: Thank you, Dad, but that's all I need to know.
Dad: Okay, son, but remember, if you ever need help in American history, always feel free to come to me,

JANE STARTS HER BUSINESS CARREER

(Without First Correcting the Bad Habits
Her Teachers Warned Her About)
by Cheryl Napier

Employer: Jane, why are you late?
Jane: I forgot to set my alarm clock.

Employer: What time did you get up, then?
Jane: I got up at 6 o'clock. I usually gets up at 5 o'clock.
Employer: Well, it seems to me that you had plenty of time to get dressed.
Jane: You see, sir, I have to get up at 5 o'clock, or I won't make it on time.
Employer: What do you do in the morning that requires so much time?
Jane: I have to take a luxury bath for an hour, read the comics, do my nails, comb my hair, clip my toe nails, massage my toes, do my yogi exercise, eat breakfast, and watch Captain Kangaroo.
Employer: I'm sorry, but you'll have to be on time. Didn't you learn to be punctual in school? Will you come on time from now on?
Jane: Yes, sir. I'll stop massaging my toes.
Employer: Just so you're on time.
Jane: I will be, sir, even if I have to stop watching Captain Kangaroo!
Employer: Come into my office and take dictation.
Jane: I'm ready, sir.
Employer: Will you please stop chewing like a cow?
Jane: I put it under my typewriter. All right?
Employer: No, you don't! Don't you have any sense?
Jane: Yes, sir . . .
Employer: Never mind. Let's get on with it. Where's your pencil?
Jane: I let my girlfriend borrow it, and she forgot to give it back to me. Can I go get it? We were writing a letter to Ringo Starr, and I forgot it. Ain't he a dream?
Employer: Never mind all of that. Let's get busy—and don't use "ain't." You ain't learned a thing in school.
Jane: Sir . . . you just said "ain't."
Employer: Never mind, and stop interrupting me. Now . . .
Jane: Can I go get a drink of water?
Employer: Gracious, no! Now, come on.
Jane: Let me put my lipstick on. Don't you think I'll look better?
Employer: I couldn't care less, but I know this office will look better without you. Now, come on.
Jane: I still don't have a pencil.
Employer: Good gracious, go get it! Do you think the words will flow out of my mouth onto the paper?
Jane: No, sir.
(Ten minutes later)
Employer: What took you so long? Did you make the pencil?
Jane: I had to tell the other secretary that that salesman made eyes at me.
Employer: Forget it! Just forget it! Now, come on.
Jane: Is it all right if I . . .
Employer: Pay attention. Send this letter to . . .
Jane: How do you spell "send"?
Employer: Stop interrupting me. Send it to Mr. Claus at Baltimore.
Jane: Don't you mean Santa Claus at the North Pole?
Employer: Stop interrupting me! I said Mr. Claus at Baltimore. Now, tell him that I will send the . . .
Jane: How do you spell "send"?
Employer: I give up. Goodbye.
Jane: But, sir, let me finish . . .
Employer: Honey, you are finished!

WHAT IF? A SHUDDERING LOOK INTO THE FUTURE

by Norma Threadgill

What if Rayla Edler really becomes a beautician? Halo Wigs will get more customers.
 What if Laura Pitts fulfills her goal to become a pediatric nurse? Lord help the next generation!
 What if Ruth Olivo becomes a legal secretary? Perry Mason will lose his first case.
 What does Bruce Bivins want to be when he grows up? "Bigger." Robert Frieman says, "Me, too."
 What if Reggie Peniston becomes a doctor? Kenny Broxton, our future mortician, will become rich.
 What if Debbie Tillery lives up to her goal and becomes a mortician? People will be killing themselves to stay alive.
 What if Pat Wilson becomes a mathematics teacher? $36 \cdot \frac{1}{2}i$ —that's what.
 What if Vernon Parker becomes a dentist? "Look, Mom, no teeth."
 What if Paula Brown becomes a famous ballet dancer. No one could tell.
 What if Willie Fisher ever made more than four points in a basketball game? I'll be an old woman with a beard.
 What if a woman ever became president of the United States? Chaos.

WHAT SCHOOL ATHLETICS HAS TAUGHT ME

by Bruce Bivins

Athletics has played an important part in my high school career. I have played football and run track—both very pleasing to me—and have learned that an athlete is more than just the name of a person who participates in sports.

An athlete is a person who is strictly dedicated to training, self-responsibility, and good sportsmanship.

There is no guide or book that can make you an athlete, but there is a path all must follow. It is a path of winning and defeat.

It's often said that a good hard-driving loss is better than an easy win. You must have your heart and soul in the game to get something out of it. I have seen athletes rise and fall, live and die, but none of them will tell you it was an easy trip.

Perhaps this is what adult life is like, too.

THE ART OF FASHION AT SOUTH SIDE

by Maxine Lewis

In today's world, fashion is the newest craze. Americans young and old spend millions of dollars a year trying to dress nicely and keep up with one another. Even in South Side, students seem to think that they have to wear elaborate dresses, coats, suits, and shoes to school in order to pass the inspection of their classmates.

The girls of South Side, for example, believe that they should go back a few years and wear the style of the "50's," that is, long dresses and skirts. The girls really believe this, because they wear their skirts so long that they come to about their hips. They think the newly found craze of fashion is drawing the outline of their eyes to make them appear larger. This, of course, is true, but do they have to draw them all the way to their ears? Eyebrows meet the hair line and, nowadays, the hair itself almost touches the ceiling.

Some think that gym is a place to show off their clothes so they will frequently wear textured stockings and high heels to play kickball in. Others believe that students should always take pride in their clothing, but by taking so much pride in their clothing they have none left for themselves.

Indeed, if the girls of South Side didn't have quite a few articles of clothing, they might be stout, but they aren't, because they would rather buy clothes than buy food.

No wonder South Side has so many visitors yearly. They all come to see our girl students' version of the "South Side Fashion Show."
